

English Philology - Teacher Training Program

Program type: postgraduate (second-cycle)

Study mode: full-time

Number of semesters: 4 (2 years)

Tuition fee: 5200 PLN

About the program:

If you wish to link your academic growth with the continuous development of linguistic skills and gain teaching qualifications to teach English as a foreign language at all educational levels, study full-time English Philology – Teacher Training Program at MA level. Here, apart from developing practical language skills at a high C2 proficiency level of CEFR for languages, students deepen their knowledge and academic skills in Applied Linguistics and English as a Foreign Language methodology as well as develop their practical skills in the context of teaching English.

General qualification criteria:

- a BA or MA degree in philology (diplomas in other disciplines will be subject to the coordinator's verification);
- C1 level language proficiency in English (confirmed with a recognized certificate or an online oral exam).

Future career prospects:

Our students finish their studies with strong communication skills in English in writing and speaking at C2 level. They are well prepared for a teaching career. They are prepared to teach English to all age groups and all school types. The acquired skills and knowledge enable them to seek employment in public and private schools at all educational levels, language schools as well as cultural institutions, business or service sectors that require proficient command of English and liberal arts education.
