

Intercultural Communication

Programme type: graduate (second-cycle)

Study mode: full-time

Number of semesters: 4 (2 years)

Tuition fee: 7200 PLN /year

QUALIFICATION CRITERIA FOR FOREIGN CANDIDATES

The BA diploma (or equivalent) constitutes the basic admission criterion. You can apply for Sustainable Development if you have a degree in:

- Sociology;
- Political Studies;
- International Relations;
- Journalism and Social Communication,
- Economics;
- Social Politics;
- Management;
- Philology
- Cultural Studies.

Please note that even if you have a degree in one of the above-mentioned disciplines, your transcript of grades still will be verified by the programme's coordinator. If your previous study programme and the one we offer differ significantly, it might be impossible for you to pursue Intercultural Communication at the University of Opole.

Check the programme's website here.

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Students will learn:

- how to merge the humanistic with the analytical.
- They will be provided with emphatic approach to diverse phenomena and especially to the culture of the other: be it different nationalities, ethnicities, religions, classes, genders, and organizational cultures.
- The given programme has been designed to train flexibility and the ability to adjust and apply those skills with tact and sensibility that will enhance the efficiency of intercultural interactions within one country and internationally.

FUTURE CAREER PROSPECTS

During the programme students acquire such skills as:

- analytical and critical thinking,
- problem solving,
- project work,
- teamwork,
- English language proficiency,
- knowledge of the corporate culture,
- EU and non-EU countries,
- research,
- international experience,

which can be applied while working for:

- the multinational companies,
- NGOs,
- governmental structures,
- small business enterprises,
- international departments of educational institutions.